With an aim to bring together the diverse aspects of analytical sciences in order to solve the practical problems in varied areas of research, a 2-days National Symposium with the theme “Recent Advances in Analytical Sciences and Applications” is being organized on Feb, 9-10, 2015 at Jamia Hamdard, Delhi. The symposium is being organized by Indian Society of Analytical Scientists (ISAS)- Delhi Chapter in collaboration with Department of Chemistry, Jamia Hamdard, Delhi & Department of Chemistry, Kashmir University, Srinagar.

Scope of the Symposium and Call for Abstracts

The National symposium endeavors to provide a platform to deliberate on various issues in the frontier areas of analytical sciences. Building upon the theme, the Symposium will emphasize coupling the latest developments in analytical sciences with diverse applications in various fields of chemical, biological and allied sciences. Through the symposium, the organizers aim to share the latest excitement in different analytical techniques with the scientists in academia, industry, National laboratories, teachers and students.

The technical programme of the symposium will include both invited lectures, oral and poster presentations. Many eminent scientists will deliver lectures highlighting latest advancement in different analytical techniques and their applications. The organizing Committee of the Symposium takes pleasure in inviting scientists and researchers working in the following listed areas of analytical sciences and those utilizing various analytical techniques for solving their research problems, to participate and present a paper in the above symposium. Young researchers and students are specifically encouraged to present their research findings in the symposium by way of oral/poster presentations.

All participants interested in presenting a scientific paper in the symposium are required to submit a one-page abstract of their paper (without figures, tables & references) as per the format give below.

All abstracts must be submitted via e-mail christophercj@indianoil.in / mslam@jamiahamdard.ac.in as a MS-WORD DOC file. The last date of submitting the abstracts is 15th Jan, 2015.

The acceptance of the papers as oral or poster will be communicated by 20th Jan, 2015. Most of papers shall be accommodated as Posters, as only limited slots are available for Oral presentations.

Format for Abstract

The abstracts should not exceed one A4 size page and to be submitted as per the prescribed format only. The Times New Roman font to be used for submitting the abstract.
